

Coast Confidential

with Ross Eastgate

eastgater@gcb.newsthd.com.au

Steve swings in for charity golf day

AUSSIE cricket legend Steve Waugh will be the special guest at the Australian Timeshare and Holiday Ownership Council's (ATHOC) charity golf day at Royal Pines Resort on June 14.

Waugh, who scored almost 11,000 runs in 168 Tests for Australia, will actually be hoping for a low score when he tees off.

ATHOC's Laura Younger told CC that the organisation has already raised $92,500 for children's charities Christel House, Variety and their own ATHOC Foundation a month out from the event.

"The day is an opportunity for everyone to have some fun on one of Australia's leading courses while allowing the time share industry to give back to the community," said Laura.

Nonetheless, she's looking for more teams for the ambrose event on RPR's championship course and for donations to the 'money can't buy' auction at a cocktail function following the golf.

You can contact Laura on 5574 2622 or to find more details you can visit ATHOC's website at www.athoc.com.au.

Steve Waugh with Aussie golf legend Greg Norman